BENCHMARK cars appear not only unrestored, but also preserved within a minimum of 95% of "Typical Factory Production." They truly represent the "benchmark" for those who want to know what a brand new, factory original Corvette really looks like (see reverse side).

BENCHMARK cars represent the standards which historians, judges and future restorers can use to determine factory authenticity.

BENCHMARK cars may be the sport's best link to the past and preserving Corvette's factory authentic heritage in the future.

SURVIVOR[®]

Certificate of Historic Preservation

Presented to 1971 Corvette, VIN 194371S115186

Owned By: Peter Hendricks

The MAJORITY of this automobile's historic characteristics appear to have been preserved for over two decades.

It has survived the perils, abuse, fads and restorations common to most Corvettes. In the spirit of historic preservation, it would not be in the best interest of Corvette heritage to significantly improve or restore this automobile (see reverse side).

Therefore, the National Corvette Survivor Board believes it is in the best interest of historic research to preserve this automobile in its present state as a model for Corvette restoration.
